

How do I know if I need a backflow prevention assembly?

Your local plumbing inspector or local licensed plumbing contractor can determine if you have an actual or potential cross-connection and the type of backflow prevention that may be required.